

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a method of formulating dosage forms of pharmaceutically active ingredients and to solid dosage forms produced thereby wherein the dosage form contains a very low dose, more especially an ultra-low dose of the pharmaceutically active ingredients.